

UNITY

“What is the relationship between the collective awareness of what is going on and the shared awareness how to change this? The individual perspective is based on the belief that only a few people have the ability to change things. This individual belief builds on the perspective that personal effort is the key determinant of changing the situation. On that view, there is no system that creates inequity. The individual perspective is of the belief that the system benefits ambitious individuals.”

Unity saw himself as an ambitious individual. He was waiting for a fair spin of the wheel, and each turn seemed to be in his favor. He believed that he could hold on longer and success would come his way. Was there anything that contradicted this point of view. This was all part of his genius. There was no point that he would experience a downturn. It was not built into his worldview.

In a sense, this experience was all about the triumph of individual psychology. Why would the world yield such an on outcome? He was very careful in focusing his ambitions. That way, he could find eventual satisfaction. He had been programmed to respond to these cues. That gave him his edge. He was on his own. He was taking calculated risks. He may have been caring for his dogs, But he did not have to deal with hopeless cases. He did not see himself as a savior. He did not even go outside of his comfort zone to offer solace to others. Fundamentally, he was a caring person. He understood the service thatr he was offering the world.

He didn't see anything outside of his realm. He was not on a rescue mission. He had no idea how that widded spiral could snap back and level a person. He didn't understand how steep others could fall. He was so sure of himself. But he had also insulated himself against trouble. There was little doubt that those close to him had experienced their own terrors. But he seemed to rise above it all. That gave him a sense of confidence. He believed that fate was on his side.

What would happen if he faced more hardship? He set things up so that would never be his fate. He would care for the needs of those close to him. But he needed to make sure that nothing got out of control. He only had so much to give.

Unity was hardly a bellwether for his time. But there were a lot of people like him. And they wanted to avoid the risks of getting to know the world, They became more insular. They lived off the spoils, But they never asked any difficult questions. Unity faced similar challenges. Everything was car repair problem. You simply swapped out part and everything was okay.

There were no intractable issues. Such difficulties could be dismissed to the traumas of the individual. There were no talk of generational poverty or the inequitable dsitribution of resources. Unity was all about his own victories. No wonder, he believed that his story was unique. He had easily subdued his demons. Some might see him as a miracle-worker. But his tasks were never that amazing. That meant that he could easily achieve his greatness. For what it was worth, he had his supporters.

Unity wanted to show that he was a natural. He made up his own mind. He could not be distractedc from the true path. But he lacked for true vision. He was convinced that was sufficient for what it was. He was not going to compromise his lifestyle to have more devotees.

He accepted his lot. That was fortune enough for him.

There was so much that transpired behind his view. Could he ever achieve the insight to see beyond the veil? He was too preoccupied with the immediate. He did not want to consider a world that did not fit that model.

“I cannot waste my time like that.”

“Who really sees?”

“The true seer.”

“ You don’t have much. You have so much less than you think that you have. You have your house, and your bank records, and your home records. You have your plan, and your invention, and your plan. You don’t have the tools to pull any of this together. No one cares. This is not caring space. You are defending all of this. For what? For whom? You are floating down the river. You are headed to oblivion. It is all a matter of time. This is all that matters. You are protecting all that you have. You will never have much more than that. You will all be cast into darkness. Who is there to bless you? Who is there to give you comfort?”

“This is all that matters for you. You will accustom yourself to darkness. You do not know what you do not know. This is all part of the bargain. You wish that you knew better. You do not know what you do not know. That is how it tends to work out. You are abandoned to your devices. And that does not offer you much solace. You claim that you are not ambitious. You have what you need. You can defend what you have. Does anyone even know or care? You do not bother. You cannot bother. That is how it happens. That is how it works for you. It is a little deal that you make.”

“All roads lead to Rome. All Romans go to Naples. All mountains lead to the sea. Do you know what happened to the civilization? What occurred with the city state. What forms of currency were acceptable. Do you spend time speculating? What good does this do for the good? Who is sharing? Do you have something that I want? Do you want something that I share?”

“What should I be looking at? What is the source of the pain? Can I help? Do you feel pain? Do feel pain for those who feel pain? What kind of experiment is this? Do you pass? Are you given a heart? You get what you want, and you do not want for something that you do not have. You do not go place of needed. Everything is how it is supposed to be. How did it all get to this point?”

“I did not invite you to the dinner. That seemed like a fair deal. You were left the scraps. You were active. You recruited others to your side. I cannot present it any differently. It is not an education program This is all about people who know what they want. They have everything that they want. Where are you? What do you need? There is a store. There is a program There is a right.”

“Who made the first mistake? Did you zig? Everyone zigs. It is another night, and you have a new show. You need to feed the dogs. You need to collect the scraps. You need to put everything back into place. What are you supposed to know? What are you supposed to say? You could make more. You could have mining interests. You could have a system. There is one thing that I care about. I want everything to be good. I want everything to be right.”

“Check your bank account. You want it to be right. You are seeking integrity. You never did anything wrong. That meant that you did everything right. What do I get? She will never break up with me. The kids will never leave. We will create the perfect world for each other. I can run faster. You can run faster. There are these few people who care. This is the last person who will ever care.”

“They are auditing you. They want to know where you get your money. Where can you get more? This is how the economic system works. It all works well for you. I do not need anyone. I do not need anyone bothering me. What do you have in there? It is all a dog house. We do not move. We do not change a thing. This is a tenurable investment. What do you bring to the table? How can I get better able to do what is needed? You believe the numbers. This describes life and death. This describes birth and family. What do you want to know? How long can you keep this going? It is always someone's birthday. This always has an effect. This never had an effect."

"Do you know what this is about? How do you let me down easily? What happened to my money? What happened to my investment? This is really messing with my plan. This has nothing to do with my plan."

"How do the dogs increase your net worth? Is that all that matters? Time means one thing. Values are increased. You will not last one more hour. You will not stay until the end."

"What more is there to say to you? Get off my lawn. Move away from my car. I cannot help you. You are building a house. You are fixing a car. There is a pattern to all of this. Something is important. You hold on. You get board. Something happens to you, but it does not last. You make a choice. You change the choice. You sell the choice. You sell everything that you have. You have heart. You have soul. You have words that no one knows. You are becoming too anxious. You are caring for things that should not matter. Everyone thinks that he is getting what he deserves."

"I am trying to make this more interesting for you. You shuffle papers. You shuffle cards. You are replaced. You find a place to hide. You find a place to protect yourself. You hide out. You are not being rewarded for your efforts, but you find a place to hide out. You are not really hiding anything. You are not being anything. What is the game? This place feels like a cemetery. You seem as if you are dead. None of this matters. The disease has not passed."

"This is everything and more. How much do you make an hour? Do you work harder? Can you get overtime? How much do they give you? Are you too tired?"

"Everything is all tied up. You do oil paintings of nature. And that is natural. You see what you see, You do not add to the processes. There is life. There is death. There is life and death."

"You keep talking. You say something that matters. You make the world come alive. You pay more, and you get nothing in return. Where does this go? You need more dogs to guard the dogs. That is how it works. Someone will confess? He stole your computer. He stole your car. He stole your catalytic converter. You are noticed. You have things. You are in danger, You are noticed. I do not have time for this. I want to have more time."

"You play with your dogs. You have people who watch you play with your dogs. You love your dogs more than people. And that is the world in which we live. Why do people feel like dogs. Why are they treated like dogs?"

"Can you explain any of this? Why teach? Why teach ethics? Teach dog obedience. You are all at dog obedience school. How can you change it? You do not want to make things. You do not want to eat things. You do not want to make things that people make."

"Get out of my consciousness. I do not want to say anything more. I would put you in a house. I would give you what you needed. I would not take anything from you. It would all work out like this."

“I am sick of your mediocrity. All the dogs enjoy this. I was surprised. This is all that matters.”

“Are you following the lessons? Is this dog obedience school? What do the animals know? They know things that the humans do not know. That is how knowledge is supposed to work.”

“There are ehtical lessons. And there are lessons about lessons.”

“Do not take my bone!”

“Do not take my bone.”

“That is the best part of the bone lesson. Thatb isv the best part of the human lesson.

Where have you been hiding?”

“What are you writing?”

“An obedience book for dogs.

“Who is going to read it?”

“Other dogs?”

“How do they learn how to read?”

“Very carefully. By closing their eyes. By feeling it out.”

“Take what you can get.”

“TAKE WHAT YOU CAN GET!”

“I am going to need a little more to make it happen.”

“What are you pretending to be?”

“I can pretend what you need me to be.”

“This is where it gets fun.”

“This is where it gets fun.”

“I am not going to fight it.”

“Dog fight.”

“The fight of the consciousness.”

“I write it down.”

“I don’t want to hear anything more about the dogs.”

“I am trying to get better food.”

“Everything needs to get planned.”

“I need a clean mop head.”

“You never get what you really need.”

“Everything is going to the dogs.”

“Except the dogs.”

“This is where it gets difficult.”

“I hope that this will work for you.”

“There is a differnt balance.”

“I spend all my time trying to work out the balance.”

“This is where is hurts.”

“These are all stimulations.”

“This is part of my personality.”
