

IN PUBLIC

“The American public are interested in hearing about your experiences. Your mission was to defend the security of the people. What was that about? In order to advance that understanding you take it upon yourself to describe a constant enemy. Who are we dealing with? From your descriptions, it appears that you have created a threat of your own making. More than that, you exaggerate the threat, the more power that gives you. This is significant. You were getting engaged in operations throughout the world. Your claim is that the hidden nature of your operations means that you are not creating the threat yourself. You were responding to an existing threat by shutting it down. This could not be further from the truth. You were creating some thing that you have put together on your own. You have taken domestic rival race in these countries increase the level of threat. This creates a high level of stress. You have your own interests, which in many ways contradicts those of the American people. But you have got people so conditioned about these threats that they barely have any idea whether they are coming or going.”

“You have created a new order in America. You have reinforced hierarchy and severely limited social mobility. Personally, you may claim that you are for individual liberation. Nevertheless, these policies only reinforce levels of air quality. Everything becomes this race for the top. Can you play the role of a spectator? This defines the delayed watching. All this occurs. After all, you have your own method of social liberation. That’s all that there is. You are reinforcing meritocracy based on nonsense. And you have adapted to this game. You have adapted to all the status symbols. Things that may feel natural, such as relationships and family, all become part of a larger indoctrination. Indeed, that is your method. Everyone is victimized by the system. And you live right at the center of things trying to move them along.”

You enjoy this madness because you see yourself as in control. You endorse these shadowy figures get off on threatening people. There are times that it becomes impossible to control these operations but there’s another side to these experiences. You were able to manipulate idealistic individuals. They go along with the program. I believe your propaganda. They enhance it. That is part of their invent advancements. The whole system works this way. Gives points to mass murderers. And absolves them for their actions. Tries to find justification. It reinforces policies that allow such behaviors. You embrace these characters. Bring them to life. You give them a license. You let them intimidate people are you release them on the world.”

“You have turned morality on its head. You claim that you’re protecting the privileged few. And you’re all engaging in this game of trying to reach the top. In fact, you’re only taking us to the verge of self-destruction. You can’t blame it on anyone else in the world. Anyone who sees the story sees it for what it is. They see how you manipulate others. I see how you use organizations to control dissent in other countries. You continue our alliances with criminals. You parade your exhaustion of national treasuries to enhance your position. This is not fantastic. This is not just the stuff I love the mind. This is all real. You are a front and center in this game. Up to this point, you’ve tried to act like the puppet master. Anyone with real insight and understand what you were doing. But you have so many players in your game that it takes on a real character. And we’re all supposed to watch helplessly as the theater works itself out. You claim that you’re really not a part of this. You state that you have other aims. You wonder why things went off the rails. You build things up so that they become larger than life. This is the essence of the whole experience. That is why it seems as if we can do nothing. We watch it all transpire. And we wonder what is going on. We give into your narratives. Do you even know what any of this is about? Do you have any idea where this is headed?"

The more that you tell me about the story, the more I recognize your level of participation. I also recognize how deeply involved you have been. Are. When did the madness start? You're so caught up in this game. You really think that you're some kind of celebrity. You have been dealing with these monsters all along. You've given them a human face. You try to make them seem as if they're normal people. And you have pretended that you have been shielding your family in these kind of activities. Being honest! You were part of a mob. You have your own agenda. It doesn't matter if you disrupt other families. That's perfectly okay. You just need to protect your own people. You all act as if you're innocent. Even when you have sanctioned the most dastardly things, you continue with this kind of mindset. Everything is okay on your end. You're just a survivor. You're dealing with enough trauma in your life. You have your own demons. How does all this get started? It's all part of the same show."

"This is how you convince yourself. This is how you convince others. There's such a motivation to succeed on this narrow grid, but nothing else matters. Failure is not an option. This kind of self-destructiveness eats at the soul. You can't treat the world this way and think that it's not gonna have some kind of repercussions. This is where conscience comes in. But you have created such a tightly wound system. And it is so deep in your soul. All of this is okay. This kind of intimidation has become a norm. It's all about the humiliation of his self."

"You've become nostalgic about these models. You can create your own version of meaning in your head. None of this accords with reality. None of this goes along with the actual experiences of individuals. Nevertheless, you have transformed things to accommodate with your worldview. You continue to enhance these beliefs. Build upon them for yourself. You embrace these norms. Only later on, do you recognize the none of this has any foundation in reality. This realization makes you feel hollow. It exaggerates your trauma. It causes it to repeat over and over again. This feeling drags you down. And makes you less than you are. It pushes down on your soul. You know nothing else."

"This is all part of the destruction of the individual. You're witnessing it in your own psyche. It causes you to shut down. This prevents any kind of accountability. You can't understand the real sources of your own oppression. That enables you to carry-on with the same kinds of behavior towards others. What is the source of the search? You are way too deep in this game. You were at the center of the suffering. You make others feel the same thing that you do. This is all permitted. This is part of your training."

"You have been taught to make yourself immune. You have become numb to your own experience. You have lost a deeper awareness. You have been excluded from true knowledge. It becomes impossible to frame the whole argument. Once you start to put the parts together, you feel the levels of suffering that you have inflicted on the world. The system functions with this method. That only makes you more dangerous. You have these flashes of insight. But there's no conscience. You can offer these catchphrases. You can claim that you represent certain kinds of political beliefs. But everything is performance."

"Your whole life that's one big performance. And you are front and center in this experience. You make it happen. You continue it. You nurture it. When someone is on the verge of describing the system you try to poke holes into the accuracy of the depiction. It becomes impossible to characterize your actual role this whole process. That only makes things tense. It adds to the confusion. It reinforces the wonder. What is behind it all? How can you peel back the veil? Does any of this matter? What is your position in the overall process. Under you see yourself as a leader. You've been keeping tabs on at all."

"You maintain that this is a form of protection. You're advancing the interests of the people. But you are showing how it's possible to keep these kinds of operations going in the world. You're maintaining this kind of control over others. You are the system. You're so far deep in it that you don't even know what it means to work in a country may way. And then on the adds to your challenges. That only adds to the overall paralysis. People can see this in marvel. We can believe that are parts of this spy caper. It all seems entertaining. It gives greater meaning to their lives. New marvel in this white. You act as if you were the source of liberation. It couldn't be worse. You couldn't be worse. You're only a tool. You were less than nothing. This adds to your lack of awareness."

"You make it impossible to have a public voice. You have become so devoted to the fiction that you're able to poke holes in a contrary position. What's really going on here? How have you contributed to this alienation?"

"We are all closer than we know. We are so far away. You keep us in the dark. You maintain this confusion. It would be so easy to get out the heart of this matter. But people would have to face their crimes. You have done everything that you can to absolve them or what is making these things work. What gives a power to these experiences? Who are you? Who are you? Who are you? What is your role in fostering this behavior? You're a force in the personalization of history at the moment when everything is systematic. How is any of this even possible? How are you even possible? G. Wayne has been at the heart of these operations. He has felt that he has a justification. He carries on with his mission. He really doesn't question the bigger picture. This is all part of his inculcation. Again, it becomes impossible to raise questions about his behavior. Since he has been collaborating in with his vision of the world, he hides behind his own trauma. And he and Flix greater levels of suffering on the world. He thinks this is okay. Lancer is tasked with giving credibility to G. Wayne's story. It becomes impossible to get to G. Wayne's trauma because her trauma is even greater. These experiences of the agency obscure anything else is going on in the world."

"Our training is quite specific. The goals or clear. We are supposed to exploit the weaknesses of individuals. We find tragic events in their lives are, and we find ways to make people relive these experiences. This makes them hopeless. They are looking for some kind of moral center. Therefore, they are totally compliant to our manipulation of their character. At the same time, they become immune to the suffering of others. We exploit this numbness, and this improves their efforts within the organization you organization is built upon this kind of discipline. No one questions certain because people are doing it to themselves. Essentially, the organization does not have any form of accountability. Everything is permitted. Everything is permitted. Everything is permitted. On this basis, the participants do everything that they can to prevent detection. They are trained in these methods. They recognize that their failures to evade detection could result in their detention. If that happens, the organization totally disavows any responsibility for these operations. Even though the plans of operation are affected effective, they are limited in nature. This gives the ability of the agents to improvise. This application results in positive outcomes for the organization. The organization does not have to accept any form of responsibility for these actions since the final manifestation is based upon the personal actions of the individuals. Many aspire to us organization they believe that their participation enhance the cause of freedom. Yes, they are convinced that they are part of a glorious mission they are allowed to create their own rules they are allowed to go beyond the balance of decency. These are all expectations of the organization.”

“This is exactly how things work. That is why participation is so committed. Everyone is engaged in this experience. They are immersed in these benefits. Nothing else matters. This is the only measure of their activity. They are free to do whatever they want. They are rewarded immeasurably for their exploits. They are creating their own world. And they feel that they are adept at their craft.”

“When you’re at home, you can be a family man. You can be a churchgoer. You can be an exemplar of your beliefs. Your good deeds will atone for anything that you have done, as you advance the values of your society. Within the walls nothing is sanctioned. You must obey. Outside the walls are, everything is permitted. You can do whatever you want that is the social order. It needs to be maintained you have a valuable role to play. And you need to keep at it. Do what you need to do. This is your story.”

“Lancer is able to convince others to stay faithful to the manual. She was supplying a manifesto for domestic consumption. These behaviors were meant to advance the perspective of the state. What was the connection? Everything was related in a tight fabric. How did it manifest itself? This process was more than evidence. The social Milyer was tightly controlled. People were allowed to act out. They could jump around. They can make their silly jokes. But none of their gestures were meant to circumscribe existing society. This was a challenge in itself. How could individuals develop clear profile some selves if all their efforts call me confirmed and excepted way of acting? More than ever deviance was circumscribed. This was how organization recruited members. It built upon deviance. It was based on the idea that there was a way of acting that compute that emphasize the superiority of the team. These members believe that they were better people. They had a unique calling. In this gave them their total justification. From this understanding, they believe that they could get away with anything. And the organization relied upon this kind of mentality.”

“ If they could push the envelope in their own lives, they could do anything in support of the state. They didn’t see themselves as a moral. They were always coming up with some kind of twisted justification to make it seem as if they were acting within law. But the law was entirely based upon the deviance. It was not based upon allegiance. It was based upon the exceptions that were offered to these special individuals. They felt that they were saving the state from its self. And this was the key to social development. On this basis they believed that they could hold it all together with their ideas. It was totally bizarre. It was complete freedom in their eyes. They were acting without any constraint.”

“Lancer was excellent at manipulating this logic. No wonder she was such a valued asset. She made this organization go even if she played such a small role. In fact, this was also the intent. Everyone was taught to systematic awareness. And she continued that tradition. In working with Wayne she found a clear justification for all efforts of the state. This made her even more adept. She was able to impose her will on every instance. At the same time, she was totally given over to her emotions. It was almost pathetic. They were in moments when she seemed totally overwhelmed. In a deeper sense, this was the act. She was the actor. She was tossed in the sea of emotions. The theory was even more insipid. She was able to carry on this perspective, she could use it to dominate others. Your organization relied upon total manipulation.”

“You could have assassins like G.Wayne. And you could’ve people like Lancer. She humanized the unimaginable. This even made the situation more frightening. How else could it be? This had said already been a part of America’s past. It had been institutionalized. It had been mechanized. It had been digitized. In this room everything was permitted. For someone who should’ve seen the actual foundation of these actions, she had learned away to sanitize all the dirt. That only added to the portrait. She would appear to be taken aback by the situation. But she was summer start in the middle of things. Period the more that she worked, the more she became the theoretician. This kind of madness should’ve been a check on her activities.”

“She was in the middle of things. She faced them. She gave into them. She reveled in this world. It couldn’t be more depraved. She appeared to find the light in what was going on there was a certain way when she talked about Cesar Tri-Cities. She was able to sugarcoat everything. The worst abuses would seem to be after thoughts. Is it all started with a literary allusion. She knew what it meant to expose the horror. Total personal exposure ended up becoming the supposed opposite of her intention.”

“She was sanctioning this kind of behavior she was embracing it. She was immersing herself in it. She was gracing it. She was loving it. Her constant protestations hardly made up for her overall intent. It couldn’t be more evident. That was how we’re gonna station work. It was built on this kind of awareness. It was pleasurable sleep workout. As Lancer was able to build upon this insanity. That was why she was sought after. She couldn’t make it all seem normal. She had first exaggerated the threat. Now she added to the portrait by acceptance of these extreme measures. In the end, these measures were so much worse than the original complaint. But Lancer was trained to reverse this logic. She was trained to reverse these angels. These individuals lacked a moral compass whatsoever. That was in their job.”

“It was left up to my answer.”

“And she became so accustomed to this kind of thing, that she could extend it to her home life. She could give cover to a monster such as D. Wayne. This was beyond the serial killer. This person was killing with a reason. He was killing with a vengeance. He was killing for the state. And made his actions worse. Lancer did everything that she could to justify this kind of behavior. In her mind, she was there to help the American people with the dangers to their way of life. In fact, things were much simpler.”

“People didn’t need a grandiose theory to explain how the shit was coming down. They were living it. And Lancer was trying to muddy the water as if she could offer a more hospitable version of the facts. When people encountered such displeasure, they could easily be seduced by these narratives. They felt powerless. Lancer gave them villains. She gave them people to blame. Even if people like D. Wayne were the real source of the problem, she seemed to give him a justification. After all he was getting rid of the evil people. His son could accept this kind of fairytale”

. At one point, his son could finally come to terms with the monster with whom they lived. Lancer made everything okay. This is what she had been taught from early childhood. There were monsters in our own life that had broken her spirit. Nevertheless, she simply gave in to this kind of logic. For crimes of life, it was okay to absolve the worst offenders. Take care of her total inspiration. She was always chasing these ghosts. She could believe that she was on the side of the angels. She even know how to sing their songs. It should've been a clue that somethings wrong. It should've shown people how bad everything was. All of this garbage worked in concert. This was the method. This was the system. This was the fabric. This was the disturbance. This was the noise. Was anything clear? I don't think we clear? Could anyone make sense of any of this? Lancer was beset with confusion. Lancer offered total clarity. She could do it all in one gesture."

"That gave her a strong foundation. The story relied upon her witness. She could absolve everyone of their culpability. This gave her power. And made her the source. And she loves that position everything was so confusing. Everything was so clear. Everything was so confusing. Everything was so clear."

"You're going to have to figure this out. She has the key. She has the code. She has the knowledge. She's in charge. This was the model used time and time again. In her own way, everyone was always a leader, everyone had a purpose, everyone was part of the vision. Everyone could try to escape but they could not figure out what any of this about? This was life or death. She knew this. She recognized her strength. This was more than any explanation. She was rewriting the reality. That made her invincible in her on way."

"No one should have to go through this. She was able to create a hell. She was redemption. This is how the system worked. This is how her system works. She round face. She controls face. This is all her."

"How was trauma transformed into a form of subservience.? This kind of challenge created an important dilemma for the individual. Answer understood this difficulty. This was the source of her protection that became difficult to challenge her point of you and facing this question. The members of the organization considered that their personal burden was greater than anyone who had been interrogated. At the same time, this burden insured that the individuals could continue to apply the theories of the authorities. The organization was able to maintain the strict control. This kind of devotion was essential for the total loyalty of each person. They could inflict pain because they tend to minimize the suffering of others. They had a shared understanding with each other. They protected a point of view that contradicted any contrary way of seeing the world. This added power to their way of thinking. They supplied them with total license. This theory was unique in itself. It embodied the view that a particular kind of knowledge was more authoritative than any other. This gave a level of commitment from each agent."

"On this basis, it would be impossible to question the actions of any person. Those questions would seem to minimize personal trauma. They would also ignore the threats posed by these external powers. Such, this was a total assertion of imperial power. There was no break in this assertiveness. It was dominant throughout. Lancer knew this. That was why she could make excuses for D. Wayne. She could justify the actions of anyone within the organization."

"There were no breaks. It was impossible to question this overall authority. This was a wonder. This was without equal. Such an extensive assertion of power was his self a threat. But it's face no contradictory at work. The fabric was seamless. The effectiveness was without any equal. Disembodied the critical outlook that gave shape to the organization. In essence, there were no weaknesses. Nothing could take away the total domination. This kind of assertiveness was without president. The organization realized on this systematic structure. There would be no opposition. Any attempt to challenge this perspective could be met with force. Agents faced no limits on the power. Thus, there could never be any form of accountability. Is all part of the effectiveness of the organization."

"Lancer's history had always been tied to an allegiance to these principles. It all started with the confusion within the self. The organization relied upon self doubt. It exploited the weaknesses of the individual. It left people vulnerable to all kinds of exploitation. If a person reflected on her own experience, she would come up against these kinds of threats to her person. Even in developing her independence, she was already giving solidity to this form of interaction. She battled for tranquility. In a sense, this integrity was based upon an acceptance of a very suicidal norms which had left her vulnerable. She would continue in this mode of thinking. In the spaces, she would feel and put a traction to expressions of power. She might make it seem as if these were decisions on her own part, but she was giving greater validity to a way of thinking based upon oppression."

"Even in showing her sympathies for the less fortunate, she continue to assert her own self-actualization. This would be a detriment to others. But she was not willing to yield. It was inevitable that others would not be able to face these obstacles with the same kind of verve that she expressed for herself. This underlined the overall control of the system. Had her personal development became extended, she became more immersed in the meritocracy. She sought the rewards for self. Even if she failed at certain benchmarks, she found alternatives. She would ally herself with others in power. This weird advance her own ambitions. Her superiors were impressed by this kind of zeal. That helped her solidify a grip on power. And it was the basis for a total allegiance on her part. How was she able to survive under these conditions? In a sense, this was for brilliance. She was resilient. Even when she was reminded of her worst experiences, she try to use them for a triumph of the soul. This might've left those conditions in tact. Nevertheless she embraced this opportunity. Nothing else mattered. She had a vision. She was putting it all into practice. This vision was buttressed by a creative side."

"Even though she had focus most of her energies within the organization, she was still able to frame this ideal. In this ideal who is the source of her wonder. She had been headed in this direction all along. In a sense, her aesthetic stymied he kind of political awareness. She found those points were the system permitted slight variation. And see if she exaggerated these fines. This jeopardized the position of the organization. No matter, they needed this kind of protection to carry on with their outlook. Clearly, she felt powerful. She felt strong. There is no real impediments to her growth. When she needed to, she could make claims that she was a rebel. In essence, this form of rebellion was tied to a lack of accountability on the part of the organization. Question the system that placed any constraints on its operations. And she was an excellent representative of how this ideology could be put into practice. This increased her RAW. She was more sore after that never. So my question her loyalty. They might be confused about her movements within the organization. She was storing everything out. She was learning all that she needed to know. But there was something more to these efforts. She and body to future. Even if she was going to make her exit, she had established a new way of seeing. This was all based on her personal situation. In fact, she was providing more long lasting location for the rocks for the organization. She remained in this place. It provided her with authority. It gave her insight.”

“This imprint was now in essential part of the organizations activities. Lancer felt invincible. She did not exist in reality. She created a realm all to herself. In this place, no one could get to her. This was all part of her success. The narrative was long-lasting. It could not be marginalized. An allowed for no contrarious. This was the organization asserting itself. She found her place.”

“Who else could benefit from this kind of scene. In her own way she had justified D. Wayne. She had rescued him from obscurity. She felt that she had the Midas touch. She could make anything appear to be beautiful. It was impossible to divorce this way of thinking from a culture that was totally given to suffering. Even if she had put that inculcation behind her, any moment of euphoria was laced with an intense regret. This made it impossible to see things any differently. She was a worthy member of the organization. Her role could be likened to the original framers. From this point on, she could give the logic for any kind of operation. She could allow for the quirks of the individual. She could accommodate for their culture. Everything was about the dominant model. That was all that mattered.”

You’re creating your own model. And it functions successfully 4 AM. That is how they were going to stations. You are meant to focus on. At the same time certain aspects of these operations remained hidden. This enables you to gain greater control over the situation. You can do whatever you want. You could demonstrate your success. You could continue to advance in the organization. You got your rewards. Even enhance reputation. You were adept you’re a promoted. All these things work in your favor. What would happen if he American people truly understood what was going on. You spent all this time creating the fear of the Lord in them.”

“They could recognize these international adversaries. But your friends from one day become your enemies the next. And the people seemed to turn on a dime. It was surprising that you can generate such a high level of commitment about things that have a little to do with people’s lives. They were so frustrated. They were so angry. There were so many negative influences in their lives. You were only enhancing these. That made things worse. It becomes impossible to change the situation. It was overwhelming. And you were making it happen. Why didn’t it work this way? Why does any of it work this way? This was who you are.”

“This is why you are the way that you are. This is why everything is coming down on you. The organization reinforces the circle of dependency. The cycle extends throughout the society. People actually feel that their actions are independent. They’re an able to exercise for control over operations that are occurring around them. Nevertheless, they are acquiescent.”

“Any anger is channeled towards the appropriate activities. You have total control over all of this. Nothing interrupts these operations. This is all part of your total supremacy. You’re good at what you do. You’re excellent at what you do. You could do all this and more. I just made you this way. Why are you so compliant? Lancer is thought about these things in detail. That is how the organization works. That is why she has achieved a high level of capability. In fact, this is the operation in which she is engaged. At this moment, she can exercise total control. That is all that matters. That’s all that will ever matter.”

“She is a success. She looks for others who will be successful. There will be no questions asked. Everything is acceptable. Even failures are transformed into successes. This is all part of the accounting procedure. This is all part of her efforts. She is totally successful when she does. That is why she’s part of the team. That’s why you’re part of the team. That’s why you’re all working together. That’s why you’re all moving towards some kind of finality. That just seems to be acceptable. It’s all part of the organization. Even in its other failures, the organization is extending its structure. It is affirming its methodology. It is eliminating any competition. This is all that remains. The organization is everything.”

“What does it say about the body? What does this say about the mind? This is a unique kind of control. This is a strong development. It has no equals. You can deal with your past. You can deal with your allusions. Everything is about total submission to the order. Lancer has realize this. Her family is built upon this principle. She can absolve Wayne. She can create standards for the future. She can recruit others. Nothing is in her way. Nothing can stop her from achieving this level of success. That is why she is sought after. Why she has it in demand. This continues a kind of attachment that has motivated everything in her life.”

“She needs to hide things. She needs to get things off your chest. She needs to overcome her troubles. She’s good at this. She’s better at this. She’s going to make it happen. It’s a personal thing. It’s a personal reality. And she’s been able to impose this world on the rest of society. It’s acceptable. She’s excepted. She’s wanted. Period is the competition. How does this happen? How did she achieve such focus. There’s chaos all around. She uses the chaos. She immerses others in the chaotic. That is why she is welcomed. That is why she is loved. She knows that the world will except this arrangement. She has manipulated her influences. She has manipulated these cultures. She has destroyed the ability of the world to resist her. This was always the goal. This was always her personal goal. She was drawn to this from the beginning. Everyone was drawn to her. She expressed her irresistibility.”

“The system expresses her irresistibility. Lancer does no wrong. Lancer can apologize because lancer does no wrong. Everything submits to this one order. And lancer is supreme. Lancer is everything. The close-up is changing my view of everything. We’re all losing basic control. That’s where Lancer comes in. She fills in for our inadequacies. Lancer makes everything rise. Lancer gives beauty to our world. Lancer is all about a Paris. Lancer has all about appearances. Lancer seas and lancer doesn’t say. That is why she’s so effective. That is why the world is following her lead. She has a mastery. She has a total focus. None of this is going anywhere. It’s all going to one place. The organization is supreme. Accept this world!”

“Your organization is supreme. Nothing can stop the organization. Nothing can stand that were in the way of its commitment. Organization expresses total control over the world. Bless us everyone because it takes away from everyone. I don’t want to remember any of this. I don’t want to think about this. I don’t want to see it. I want nothing to do with it. I don’t want to hurt me. I don’t want to hurt anyone. Why is this happening? Why is this happening to me? Why is this keep happening over and over again? This is all part of the world. It’s all part of the vision. These are things that I see but I do not want to say. These are things that I see, but I cannot say.”

“I want to be blessed. I wanted eternal blessing. I want to grow. I want to develop. I want to get out of here. I’m being chased. I’m being frightened. Why do you use the dogs? What is the organization use for dogs? What kind of people are you? You have one goal in mind. It is to destroy the lives of others. And you're so good at it. Lancer has perfected a method. Lancer has advanced a way of thinking. Lancer knows what it's all about. Everyone's on the same page. Everyone's working with lancer. She's so sure at what she does. She's so competent. She creates a new competence. She creates a new essence for personal development. Lancer is everything. And everything is lancer. Lancer is ready to go. Lancer is ready to escape."

"One thing is needed. Many things are needed. Can I answer help can you help? Do you have the foundation? Can you jump up and down? I need a better self description. I need to work on my act. I need to increase my skills. I need to harden myself for what comes next. I need to see the creature is so moving in the dark. And was second to do for anyone? Why is that so different? Let me know what that means. This is the last piece of the puzzle. Is this about Wayne? Or is this about lancer? You really messed up. You hurt yourself. It wasn't supposed to be this way. The organization was supposed to inform you of new skills. You crash down. How did that happen. Why aren't you more adventurous. You need to go to the lawn. You need to complete the exercise. Who else is here? Who else is adding to the freight? You were trapped in a limited space. Is this part of the torture? How do you carry this on? How do you get others convinced to accompany you. This is part of your operation? How can you get away with such a meager results. You tell me that you're going to expand. You have not been succeeding. Your hardware has malfunctioned. You keep making excuses. This stuff is useless. No one is telling the truth. Do you want to make more of the shit. No one is telling the truth. Are you going to work together? Are the two of you going to work for the same team? Who are you kidding? We're looking at more opportunists."

"If you were good, you could actually create sentences to change this process. All you can do is create sentences to go along with this process. That is who you are. That is why you are lancer. That is the basis for your scale scale. There needs to be something more here we need to develop a method. Lancer, what is your method? What is G. Wayne saying to you? He really knows nothing. He really knows nothing! He really knows nothing. If he did, he might have more of a conscience. He wouldn't lean upon his feeble traumatic background. He would face who he was and be a true human being. Instead he's nothing but a slug. And he is going along with this kind of vision. He is standing your belief. The two of you are clowns. The two of you are clowns. The two of you are clowns."

"I'm going to eat well. I'm going to forget about all this. There's one way to go. But I can't get there. I'm being blocked. I'm being shocked. I'm being asked to leave. I'm not going leave this time. I'm going make my stand. I'm going stand where I need to stand. He deals with so much shock. I can only deal with so much interruption. This is making me harder. This is strengthening me, Lancer. You're trying to destroy me. You cannot destroy me. Nothing can destroy me. I am immersed in this moment. I am caught in the excitement. I love the stimulation. We are all taken by it. We are all overjoyed. I need to go deeper. I need to go deeper. I need to go deeper. Turn the lights off. They're watching us. They can see in the dark. They believe that they are visionaries. They are all going to be destroyed. They are walking into a trap. You're walking into a trap. You're all walking into a trap. Don't even see it. You don't even know it. I even care of that but you don't know it. That's the worst part. Really, that's the worst part you don't even see it. You're even know it. That's the worst part indeed, it couldn't be worse than that. Your words are guiding you. They're taking you to the same place you made a mistake. They're taking you to the wrong place. You were too involved. Why are you getting this wrong? Why are you getting yourself wrong. Just go on. Just move along.”

“What’s interfering with your understanding. You were too quick to make a decision. You got this affect you. I seen where you now are now. This could’ve been worse. But you’re going along with it anyway. I need to get all this out of my head. Lancer, why are you torturous? Why are you making it this way? I can’t go back to this point. I need someone to boost me up. I need someone to change me. I need someone to make me powerful.”

“I need some coaching. What is the card in there? Or do they have in there? Why do they think that this has something to do with me? I went too far. I got caught up in the wrong things. I can hear the noises. Hear the disruption. I need to show more restraint. This is good. This is great. I can taste it. I love it. It fills me with a wonderful power. I really got cut into. I thought that I understood some thing.”

“Had it messed me up. I need to make a report. What is today’s report? What have we learned? Who is involved? Or do they want to know? What are you telling me? Is the stuff ready? This took longer than I thought. You took longer than I thought. I don’t want to think about this. How does this work? How does any of this work?”

“You just need a glass. You just need to fill up the glass. I need a little more time. I need a better explanation. Then you need to fill up the glass. I don’t wanna take the risk. Don’t want my heart to be fast. I don’t want to feel fear. This is the now.”

“Lancer, you’re taking me away from myself how does that function? How can you get away with that? I want us to start. But it will not start.”

“Lancer, you’re in my head. Lancer, you’re making me hurt. Lancer this is awful. Lancer this is wonderful. You’re destroying my ability to resist. This is part of the torture program. I want to make it stop. Tell them to make it stop. Lancer I need to stop. You do not want to stop. You’re taking delight in this. You’re apologizing, and you’re taking delight in this. It happens every time. I’m going through the same events. I’m going to the same experience. And you’re doing this to me again and again. Lancer why are you doing this to me. Lancer Lancer Lancer. What gave you this right?

“What made you this way? Have you always been this way? Have you always acted like this I needed to stop Lancer I need to stop. I need all of this to start. It does not start. It will not stop. You enjoy it this way. This adds to the heat. This adds to the suffering. This adds to your enjoyment. This go on and on. You make this go on and on. How does it happen this way? How can you stop it? How can anyone stop it I’m going much further than I expected I’m going deep in the enemy territory. Lancer, this is your fault.”

“You’ve destroyed the world. You have made the world into your image and likeness. You want us to praise you. Do you want us to give you some thing but you can’t be given. You’ve given G. Wayne absolution. You’ve given G. Wayne a life. You’ve given him money. You’ve given him a family. What have you given me? I’ve steeled my will I am ready for a confrontation. Lancer, I am finally ready for a confrontation with you. I can easily take you on.”

“There’s nothing that you can do to stop me. Lancer, I am in total control. This is all about me. This is all about the reality. This is all that matters. Turn up the heat. Turn up the volume. Turn up the Lancer. It’s better than this. I want my life back. I want something that you can’t give me. Is everyone losing focus? Is everyone looking better than they are? How does this work? I need to get into a program. I need to dance this off. I need a different sound. I need you to lead me on. I need you to provide me with a clearer understanding. Lancer give me everything. Lancer give me liberty, or give me death. You've redefine time. You've redefined space. You've redefine reality. I only have a little bit to work with."

"My answer, what have you given me? Lancer, how have you blessed me? What are you waiting for? What are you looking for? What do you need? How do these meetings coincide? Where do you find the power? What convinces year? With less this year? To the monster! Why do you use the dogs? Do they use the dogs on you? What is this all about? Who are you people? Why can anyone trust you? I am strong. You've given me strength. I'm strong. You've given me strength. You give me everything. You're the life. Don't hurt me lancer. Don't ever hurt me. Don't let the dogs hurt me. Don't torture me. Give me what I need Lancer. Give me myself. Give me some kind of reality. Help me ground myself a strength. I'm all eyes. I'm all ears. I'm all hands. I'm on knowledge. I am everything."